To Lease School Land.

Washburn, July 26.—The house has passed the bill with amendment, permitting

Wyoming territory to select, protect and lease its school and university lands, and the Senate has concurred in the amendment. In the house the bill was referred to the Committee on Education, and the bill was read

by a rule the committee rose.

The fortification appropriation bill was reported. Sprague gave notice that he would press

the O'Conor bill to the floor to-morrow.

The house then took up the evening

session to be for the consideration of bills

reported from the committee on judiciary.

At the evening session of the house the following bills were passed: Requiring no more than one thousand dollars of premiums

to be given to smelters on both sides of U. S.

officials; authorizing juries of U. S. circuit and district courts to be used interchangeably.

Adjourned.

THE MORNING OREGONIAN, FRIDAY, JULY 27, 1888.

CALVIN BRICE'S CAREER.

For the President's Lieutenant Rose to Fame and Fortune.

A Failed Speculator and Wrecker, Who Has Been Unscrupulous and Luckey.

Ohio, July 15.—Calvin S. Brice, chairman of the democratic national executive committee, got his start in the world of politics in 1861, when he was a boy of 16. He received a letter from a long-time friend, Mr. C. C. Colquitt, who wrote that they were to receive a letter from another, the president of the United States, and that it was to be read at a meeting of the Georgia Summer Assembly saying that he thought it "not wise" to invite Mr. Lincoln to the state. Mr. Colquitt asked him to do this, so he did. When asked to do this again, he said, "I don't want to ask a republican to address a democratic meeting in Georgia." In view of the fact that he was a boy of 16, he was remarkable, and he had as much of the element of wisdom as that of the president whom he was trying to re-elect. About five years ago he became a railroad head that had as its goal to create a game of bluff with William H. Vanderbilt. The bluff game succeeded, Mr. Brice put in nothing because he was a country lawyer and had nothing to say in eighteen months later did it out an even million of dollars. How he did it remains an interesting story.

No longer ago than during the Garfield campaign, Brice was a lawyer and stout speaker for Hancock in a little Ohio village. A few years of here, he was out of here. He was out of politics because he wasn't worth money and because nobody knew what was in him. One day he went to Fremont to make a speech, and the times are changed, and so is he. He changed with them. He is not now a speaker for Hancock, but rather to help out the president that was in great full flight. Representative Stewart was still a member of the house when he was asked to speak at the annual dinner.

We don't want our doggone radio brought down into our country to talk Yankee protection.

MOVEMENTS IN NEW YORK

Additions to the List of Democrats Who Are Deserting Cleveland.

New York, July 19.—Charles S. Higgins, the Brooklyn bridge builder, has joined the Brooklyn club, and is one of the heights of the new democratic movement. He is a man of great wealth and comes squarely up to Harrison and Morton. Mr. Higgins is a lawyer and stout speaker for Hancock in a little Ohio village. A few years of here, he was out of here. He was out of politics because he wasn't worth money and because nobody knew what was in him. One day he went to Fremont to make a speech, and the times are changed, and so is he. He changed with them. He is not now a speaker for Hancock, but rather to help out the president that was in great full flight. Representative Stewart was still a member of the house when he was asked to speak at the annual dinner.

In a new novel asks another, "Is she his?" and madam: "It has produced a greater number of our species."

Boston Herald.—"He always

is a streak of bust."

It was what Westerners call a jerkwater.

It never paid a dividend and never showed any prospects of doing so to Cummings knew Howard and knew he was financially broke.

Painfully to him, he was an elected representative of the people.

Mr. Higgins has been one of the bravest contributors to democratic campaign expenses in Brooklyn, but he persistently refused to run for office. His present position is that he is a public servant

and not a politician.
